Introduction

Reigate Grammar School Vietnam has regard for their duty “to prevent people from being drawn into terrorism or unfavourable activities” and that this duty needs to be at the forefront when inviting visiting speakers to the School, or indeed when encouraging pupils to attend lectures or events arranged externally.

Preventing political indoctrination of pupils

“RGSV does not seek to prevent pupils from learning about political views or discussing political issues in school, within the laws of Vietnam. On the contrary, this is an important part of pupils’ development towards becoming independent thinkers with clear awareness of their place in society. However, we have a duty to seek to prevent negative outcomes through any one-sided discussion of political or social viewpoints.

Accordingly, we ensure that we do not encourage pupils to support particular political viewpoints through our teaching of the curriculum. Where a particular political viewpoint is represented, we take all reasonably practicable steps to ensure that pupils are offered a balanced presentation of opposing views. Examples of this can be found in the curriculum for subjects such as History, Humanities and Science, as well as in extra-curricular activities such as Model United Nations, Politics talks and in assemblies.”

(taken from the RGSUK Policy for the Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural development of pupils, including the active promotion of Fundamental British Values)

We encourage pupils to broaden their learning perspectives by attending regional lectures and events accompanied by staff and by participating in talks delivered by invited speakers and guests. The latter are arranged by colleagues and often involve repeat visitors, former pupils/alumni, parents, professional acquaintances and those seen at various events. Visiting speakers are considered for suitability in accordance with the School values and Vietnamese law.

Procedures

If a member of staff wishes to arrange a visiting speaker, including an online speaker, then this procedure must be followed and the proforma completed and approved. If at any point a member of staff has concerns about the suitability of the speaker, then they must raise this with the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

The procedure for inviting in a guest who has been checked for suitability is:

1. Information gathering which should be recorded on the proforma below (which must be handed in for approval):

- Appropriate checks on the suitability of the person, which may include internet searches or contacting other schools where the person has spoken previously
- Although not always possible, it is useful to invite speakers from an established company, charity or other groups whose aims are well-documented
- An understanding that the speaker will be expected to talk with staff about the content of the presentation before the event; speakers and staff must allow time for this discussion
- Visiting speakers should understand that their presentation will be brought to an early end if the content proves unsuitable

2. Once the suitability of the speaker has been established:

- Confirm approval and a relevant date for the visit with Head of Section or Programme Coordinator with a minimum of 7 days notice

- Inform the relevant school office of details so that visitor ID badges can be issued; these must be worn at all times by visitors
- Visiting Speaker form to be left with relevant school office staff for completion on date of visit
- ID check should be conducted on arrival at the main gate security check and the speaker should be given the school's Safeguarding Leaflet to read
- Guests are accompanied at all times by a member of RGSV staff and are never alone with any pupils

The form should be returned to the Head of section. Any concerns regarding suitability should be discussed with the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL) before confirming the speaker.
